PERSONAL-- SENSITIVE

I have just returned from a ten-day trip, part of it out of the country, and have been brought up to date on the actions in the case of [redacted]. While I was in San Francisco, Mr. Kirkpatrick telephoned me of his conclusions and I agreed. The letter I wrote to you introducing Mr. [redacted] was signed just prior to my departure so I have otherwise not been in the action.

We are continuing our surveillance of this case, but in the meantime and on the expectation that nothing is in the wind other than the facts that we already know, I would hope you would agree to [redacted]

I can assure you that we have given Mr. [redacted] a strong written reprimand which has become a part of his official record. I greatly appreciate your personal thoughtfulness in letting me know about this matter, as well as the fine manner in which your people cooperated with a member of my Inspector General Staff.

With warm regards,

Faithfully yours,

/s/
